What will Family Enrichment do for me?

Family Enrichment restores a sense of self-reliance and community to people who have lost faith in their ability to provide for themselves and their families. The program helps people live “the good life” with health and dignity.

Family Development helps families see their own strengths, reflect critically on how they arrive where they are, and determines what will help them move forward.

Families work with CADC to create goals, find services they need to reach their goals, develop the skills they need to become stronger, and make the connections in the community to become self-sufficient.

Important Steps of Family Enrichment

- The family develops a trusting relationship with a CSBG Program Participation Specialist.
- The CSBG Specialist helps the family assess its needs and strengths.
- The family sets its own goals.
- The CSBG Specialist helps the family make a written plan for reaching these goals.
- The family learns and uses skills needed to become self-reliant continuously.
- The family uses services as stepping stones to reach the goals.
- The family becomes stronger and is better able to manage future challenges.

CADC's Family Beliefs

- All people and all families have strengths.
- All families need and deserve support.
- The type and degree of support each family needs varies throughout life.
- Most successful families are not dependent on long-term public support. They maintain a healthy interdependence with others, their community, and the environment.
- Diversity is an important and valuable reality in society.
- Coordinated services and collaboration at all levels are crucial to effective family service.
- Families and CSBG Staff are equally important in the empowerment process.
- Families must choose their own goals and the way to achieve them.
- Service is provided in order of success.
